 The lumber manufacturers met at thing definite was done.

 Lately Mrs. R. S. Matson has been alarmed by men digging in her farm near Hillsboro at night by lantern light. The sheriff arrested four men this morning, strangers, who claimed to have a chart of the farm by which buried gold will be located. Since the Abbott affair the reality of this one is hooked upon with much interest. The men are from the City of Mexico and they refuse to disclose their identity. They claim that the gold was buried during the civil war. Mrs. Matson has given her consent to dig for the buried treasure.

 Rev. I. Z. T. Morris of Fort Worth says to the correspondent of the Dallas News: "I have a 14 year old boy I want to place on a ranch in some part of the state. Then there are two girls 13 years old who want me to find them a home. They are good girls, and desire good homes. People are writing me from over the state for children, and also to come after children. Letters from many I have placed indicate happy children and happy homes as a result of our work. We are still hunting for homes for some bright infants from 3 to 8 months old. Let all who will take a child write me."

 make Toyah their home.—Exchange.

 pleted in the course of ten days or two

 That H. J. Allen of Jerome, dictated the legislation of the assembly has become a matter of history which no one attempts to deny. Now comes the Phoenix Enterprise, a radical democratic paper and says "it is true that the Palace saloon of Phoenix controlled the Twentieth legislature, especially the council."—Journal Miner.

 John Gandolfo last Tuesday began the work of excavating for the new building to be erected at the corner of First and Main streets. The north end of the building will be built first and completed sufficiently to allow the tenants of the present building to move into their new quarters before the old building is removed.—Yuma Sun.

 Chas. A. Montgomery, the noted hunter, was in Tucson Monday with several lion, bear and wolf scalps from animals killed by him on Cameron's ranches near the line. Cattlemen can well afford to furnish the hunter provisions for the benefit of his working in killing off beasts which prey on the calves and colts.—Range News.

 Small fruit, poultry, bees and gardening are industries which cannot be overdone in and about Tucson. They are industries which can claim the attention of any one desiring light and honorable employment, requiring but little capital to commence to carry on business. Tucson's demand for all these products is more than 70 per cent greater than the production.—Star.

 The Twentieth Legislature for some reasons was hostile to the newspapers from the beginning of the session to the hour of the closing. The legislature is dead and the newspapers are very much alive, and are patiently waiting the time when ex-members of the Twentieth, who fought the press, seek the suffrages of the dear people again.—Free Press.

 "Weary Willie," the traveling typesetter who describes the course of an orbit, taking in all of the cities in the west from Washington to Arizona and from the Pacific coast to the Middle states, is paying Phoenix a surprise visit. He arrived lately from El Paso, and is on his way north. He is one of the poor unfortunate whom the linotype inventor has side-tracked.— Phoenix Herald.

 The foundation for the capital building is being laid wide and deep. The outer walls are of an igneous rock, hard as flint, and about four feet thick.
 The cross walls are to be of brick, according to the contract, but certainly the commissioners would be justified in changing that item to rubble, as the same igneous rock and the entire foundation would then be beyond destruction by time, or fire, or water, and beyond criticism.—Phoenix Herald.

 It has been suggested that each county in Arizona contribute a slab to the Captain Wm. O'Neill volunteer monument, each county slab to have engraved upon it the names of the departed Rough Riders from that county. These various slabs would have to be uniform as to size and could be put together in the monument to give each county an equivalent advantage, the whole to be surmounted by a bronze, life-size statue of late Captain O'Neill as he appeared when receiving the six-shooter presented to him by the city council of Prescott. These are simply suggestions which have been offered. The monument association has arrived at no conclusion as yet as to the exact character of the monument to be erected. In the meantime, contributions to the fund are still in order.—Courier.

Remarkable Cure Of Rheumatism.

 KENNA, Jackson Co., W. Va.
 About three years ago my wife had an attack of rheumatism which confined her to her bed for over a month and rendered her unable to walk a step without assistance, her limbs being swollen to double their normal size.
 Mr. S. Maddox insisted on my using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I purchascording to the directions and the next morning she walked to breakfast without assistance in any manner, and she has not had a similar attack since.—A.
